Blythwood Square Wins National Cocktail Award

The cocktail bar at Blythwood Square, has been awarded the Best Bar Menu at the prestigious CLASS awards held this month (October) in London. Blythwood Square was also nominated in the Best Hotel Bar category. The CLASS Awards, one of the signature events of London Cocktail Week, recognise the best that the UK's contemporary bar industry has to offer.

CLASS judges on awarding Blythwood Square Best Bar Menu said: "A compendium without compare. Mal Spence's first Bar Book ticks all the boxes, great design, fantastic drinks selection, just enough (but not too much) educational info, bridging the classics with more contemporary drinks. And nice etchings."

On receiving the award, Mal Spence, Head Bartender at Blythwood Square said: "It is a real privilege to receive this award, particularly as we are still relatively young in the world of cocktail bars. It has been an incredible journey putting together our cocktail menu and we're delighted it's receiving such a warm response from both our customers and the industry."

The Bar at Blythwood Square quickly became one of Glasgow's most popular meeting places. 2011 has seen the AA Five Star hotel receive a variety of awards including the prestigious AA Hotel of the Year Scotland.
